

2023 PUBLIC CHOICE SUMMER OUTREACH CONFERENCE

JUNE 9-11, 2023

EXPLORING PUBLIC CHOICE: FROM THEORY TO PRACTICE

Who Can Apply?

Undergraduate, graduate, and advanced-degree students with interests in political economy and Public Choice. Outreach has no conference fee.

About the Conference:

The Public Choice Outreach Conference is a series of compact lectures in Public Choice for students planning careers in academia, business, law, etc. Students are introduced to the history and basic tools of public choice analysis, such as models of voting and elections, and models of government and legislative organization. Students also learn to apply public choice theory to a wide range of relevant issues. Finally, students will be introduced to "constitutional economics" and the economics of rule making.

Presentations:

- An Introduction to Public Choice - Alex Tabarrok
- The Theory of Voting or What is Democracy Good For? - Alex Tabarrok
- Public Choice and Development - Shruti Rajagopalan
- Public Choice and Economic History - Vincent Geloso
- Experiments in Inequality - Johanna Mollerstrom
- Buchanan, Hayek, the Ostroms and Public Choice - Peter Boettke
- Public Choice and the Law - Jonathan Klick
- Constitutional Economics - Garrett Jones
- New Systems of Governance - Robin Hanson

More Information:

The conference will take place near Washington, DC in Arlington, VA. To apply, please visit the Public Choice Outreach Conference 2023 page at: <https://publicchoice.gmu.edu/center-programs/public-choice-outreach-conference-2023>.

FEATURED PRESENTERS INCLUDE:

Dr. Alex Tabarrok
George Mason
University

Dr. Shruti Rajagopalan
George Mason
University

Dr. Jonathan Klick
University of Pennsylvania

AND MORE!

CENTER FOR STUDY
OF PUBLIC CHOICE
CSPS